

My grandparents are special. We spend a lot of time together. Every Sunday we go to Grandma and Grandpa's house for dinner. It's a family tradition.

How many grandparents do you have? Perhaps you have two grandmothers and two grandfathers.

Grandma sets the dining room table with her best china and sparkly crystal glasses—and she always surprises us with an extra-special dessert. Last week Grandma made the best chocolate fudge cake I have ever tasted! It was soooo good!

During dinner Grandpa tells us stories of when he was a kid. It's hard to imagine growing up without microwaves or computers! After dinner we sit around the table and play a game of cards or a board game, like checkers or dominoes.

Even though Grandpa lets me win, checkers is still my favorite game!
