

We belong together

Have you ever noticed that some things belong together? Like cake and ice cream, spaghetti and meatballs and watching movies and eating popcorn. All of these things just go together and no matter how hard you try, you just can't have one without the other. It's just like my best friend Tammy and I: We're always together.

We had a great day!

Marnie and I spent the whole day floating around in her pool talking. We seemed to know each other already! Marnie is really cool and likes a lot of the same things I do. She likes hockey and skateboarding, just like me. These are the only two things Tammy and I don't do together, because Tammy is afraid of getting hurt. I was so excited to have a new friend!

Laughing together

After the game, Tammy and Marnie came over to my house for lemonade. At first it was a bit awkward. Then suddenly Tammy started laughing hysterically when she saw how funny she looked in all her equipment in the mirror. She admitted that she was a terrible hockey player, but if Marnie and I wanted to play, she would be happy to just cheer from the side!
