

What I Like

Each and every person has his/her tastes and preferences. This means that when faced with a situation, everyone considers which option they prefer and decide what is best. It's a good job we all have our own personalities, because if we were all the same... it would be very boring!

For example, your brother's favorite food is soup, yours is salad; your cousin loves fairy films and you like pirate ones; your mum likes classical music concerts and your dad likes rock ones; your grandfather loves cherries and you love mandarins...

Going to school is the right of all the boys and girls in the world. Everything they teach you at school: calculations, languages, science and history... is very important for growing up. And though sometimes it might seem tedious, learning at school can be fun! What is your favorite subject?
