

Ramjed's favorite shop is on a corner outside the market: The DYE shop. It is there every morning with mountains and mountains of colors on a cart. Ramjed always stops there for a while. Suddenly he realizes that Gigi isn't there any more. But on the ground, there are several colored footprints that look like his monkey's feet. Ramjed follows them.

They arrive at a crossroads with several streets.
Ramjed can't cross among so many bicycles,
RICKSHAWS, cows, people and cars...
Luckily he has Gigi for these matters; he has a sixth sense and shows him where and when he can cross.

When he finally manages to cross, they take the diagonal street and pass in front of a large CINEMA. Ramjed loves looking at the hand-painted posters that change every week. Based on the drawing, he makes up a story as he walks lightly along.

