

What do photos tell us?

Here are Miriam's friends:

Sara, Pablo and Nicolai.

Sara has her mouth open wide and her eyes closed. She is singing, although you can't see what song she's singing in the photograph.

Pablo has his arms outstretched and it looks like his head is upside down! In the photograph, Pablo must be learning to dance hip-hop.

Miriam is an artist

Later on, she was given a box full of multicolored pencils. That was when she started drawing things that nobody knew where she had got them from: Blue Martians, white worms, pink suns, green flowers and white houses...

Everybody told her that worms were brown, the sun was yellow and the flowers were all colors except green... But she refused to accept it and always answered the same thing: "Artichokes are green and they are certainly flowers!"

What is this?

She drew a portrait of her sister Irene, the window with geraniums, the bed, the bedside table and the painting in her bedroom. She painted the kitchen and all of its utensils, a still life painting with apples, onions, oranges and tomatoes and she painted portraits of Nicolai, Sara and Pablo.

Whenever somebody saw her painting, they asked her: "What is this?" and she replied: "Mum" or "the window" or "Nicolai."
