

The Chiminis are not the most agile or the fastest, but they are playful and lively by nature and they also want to take part. Well, not all of them.

"Leave me alone, will you?" Says Mel, surrounded by books and colored pencils. "You know I don't like sport."

"Nobody said we have to run from one basket to the other," thinks Mel.
"What do you mean?" Asks Roc.
"Of course!" Shouts Nil. "We have to spread out a little and pass the chestnuts to one another forming a chain."

"If I hadn't fallen in, we would have won," says Mel sadly when she emerges from the water.
"Without you, we wouldn't even have got through the first test," say the rest of the Chiminis. "And what's more, we had fun!"

"And I discovered that I do like sport," explains Mel. "Well, at least one: The reed jump!"
